READING RAINBOW

Butterfly in the sky...

This month at Maxwell, there are friends to know and ways to grow in the “Rainbow Nation” of South Africa. Today’s Reading Rainbow wines are grown from old vines and a new guard. While the rest of the world is still catching up to modern South African wine, the landscape suggests a bright future: heat, tempered by ocean access and elevation, with some of the oldest soil and bedrock in the world. From Stellenbosch Cabernet to Swartland Syrah, and Chenin Blanc that ages better than Charlize Theron, South Africa’s wine scene is as bold and diverse as the country itself. But you don’t have to take my word for it.

Take a look, it’s in a book... or, in this case, our menu.
